~ Foreword ~

With those who rank as builders of our nation, Francis Asbury, the first Bishop of American Methodism, stands. On the foundation of a religious civilization which he sought to build, our country has enjoyed the blessings of liberty and prosperity. A century has passed since the pioneer bishop traced the continent on horseback. The Apostolic spirit that, moving from land to land, drew about it the destinies of a mighty people, and shaped a civilization, Christian at heart because that heart was preached into it—that spirit is but faintly seen by modern American eyes. To recall this spirit by presenting the glorious romance of the “Prophet of the Long Road,” is the aim of The 1929 Asburian.

Acceptance of the Call

When John Wesley issued the call for workers for the New World, Asbury heard, went to his knees, hearkened to God's voice, and volunteered. Who shall say where the influence from this decision will end? He became the John Wesley of the Western World.

Dorothy Akers

On Board Ship

Very early in the voyage he subjected himself to a pitiless examination. He dissected his motives, and weighed his ambitions—the result was this: “Whither am I going? To the New World. What to do? To gain honor? No, if I know my own heart. To get money? No; I am going to live to God, and bring others so to do.” Here is the uncovered secret of Asbury’s life in America.

D. WILKINS

Preaching to the People

Francis Asbury recognized the itinerant nature of his work and denied himself the enjoyment of a home. But, to the "Man Without a Home" there were a thousand firesides where he was an honored guest. On the frontier he stopped at every home and lifted men's thoughts to God, and instilled ideas of morality. Wesley urged his preachers to go into every house. Asbury said, "I would go farther, and say, 'Go into every kitchen and shop, address all,—aged and young—on the salvation of their souls.'" Francis Asbury was the best-known as well as the best-loved man in all America; in every city in the Republic he counted his personal friends by scores and hundreds. In village and on farm, his name was familiar to all. He comforted many in their sorrows, and agonies, and like a tender, faithful shepherd sought for lost sheep from New Hampshire to the Southern Sea, and from the Atlantic to the Blue Grass Land of Kentucky.

Dr. W. D. Akers

Whom, early in Asbury's history, its founder called to his side to assist him in steering its course and shaping its destiny; whose noble efforts then made a rich contribution to the struggling holiness school; whose ripe scholarship, positive convictions and mellow spirituality still loom large among the influences which keep Greater Asbury true to its purpose, broad in its vision and constructive in its doctrine; we, with reverence, honor and deepest love dedicate this, the fourteenth volume of

~ Circuit Rider ~

Francis Asbury is called "The Prophet of the Long Road." With a holy impatience at the preachers who seemed unwilling to leave the cities he said, "I will show them the way," and he fared forth into the wilderness. "Circulation" was his watchword, and he proceeded to circulate. He said, "I must ride or die," and asking permission of no one he struck out to build on new foundations. Climbing rough mountain paths, threading dim trails through primeval forests, and swimming rushing rivers, he was often in danger, and weary. On him was the weariness of long roads so difficult that love of gain would drive no man to the end of them. Zeal of the spirit sustained him. When he came to America he rented no house, but set out upon the road, and was still traveling forty-five years later, when death finally caught up with him. When the brave pilgrim's journey ended, it was said of him, "Dead on the field."

ANNOUNCING REV. GUY WILSON, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

"With the remarkable development of Asbury College along all lines, there has arisen an imperative need for a well-organized field department, supervised not only by a man of unquestionable piety, but of exceptional business ability as well.

"We believe that the Rev. Guy L. Wilson admirably fills this vital need. He comes to head up the third major department of Asbury College as Executive Secretary. He will serve as Life Service Secretary, Publicity Director, leader of the field forces, and Superintendent of the departments of Evangelism and Missions.

"He is well fitted for the task he assumes by virtue of his background of religious training in Asbury College and a home life of unusual spiritual content, as well as in a number of years of successful service as an outstanding evangelist.

"He has had business experience along school lines of special value. He understands and appreciates the importance of team work and is thoroughly at home anywhere he may be found among his fellow-men. He is a warm-hearted, fine-spirited, congenial, and earnest Christian gentleman, and I bespeak for him a whole-hearted and appreciative reception on the part of the friends and constituency of Asbury College everywhere."

W. L. King*

Senior Class

MARGARET BOBB

Major—English

She has intellect, a charming personality, and is one of those persons upon whom one may depend. Added to this is the genius for friendship. What more could we ask?

WINSTON KING
AVILLA, INDIANA

Major—Philosophy

Winston King needs no introduction, because he has made an unusually fine Collegian editor this year. He has many sterling qualities which all recognize.

Senior Class

BYRON STROH

BARBERTON, OHIO

Major—History

Byron has high standards and hopes. He is so imaginative that happiness is hard; his ideals cannot always be fulfilled. In several ways his ideals and their fulfillment have made their impression on the campus.

ANNA TALBOTT

DAMASCUS, OHIO

Major—Greek, Latin

She is quiet in that delightful sort of way that makes the ring of her laughter all the more welcome. She is admired for intellectual brilliancy as well as for artistic ability.

STONEWALL, GEORGIA

Major—English

Leonard is one whose affections are warm and ardent—no uncertainty here. He is outspoken, but is tempered by good judgment.

MARY CRAWFORD

GREENVILLE, TEXAS

Major—English

Mary knows the value of conscientious effort. Though moderate in the expression of feeling, she experiences the deeper emotions.

Senior Class

HOMER L. MOORE

COLUMBUS, OHIO

Major—Biological Science

Here is a faithful, innately honest, perfectly sincere, and practical person, who shows by his quiet actions that he has high ideals.

VIOLET MARTIN

BROWNSVILLE, TENNESSEE

Major—French

Violet is not from Georgia, but she has the soft speech of the Georgian. She is gracious in manner, quick to see the pleasant side of life, and ready to take advantage of it.

Senior Class

ALICE DAY
COATESVILLE, PA.
Major—French

Alice is so quiet and reserved that many would not suspect her of being an "A" student, but anyone well acquainted with her has profound respect for her opinions.

FREDERICK SHILT
SHADYSIDE, OHIO
Major—Philosophy

Fred is one of Asbury's friendly, honest, kind, and steady students. He will attain results through persistent effort.

*Among the treasured friendship I have made in Asbury, I

Fond of all lovely things in life, color and harmony are strong in Jennie. There is a refinement and reserve about her which is most attractive.

MAURICE BURKHOLDER

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Education

His optimism, his habit of looking on the bright side of everything, his understanding of people, and his intellectual powers forecast a useful life for "Burkie."

Senior Class

RAIMOND HALL

L.A. BELLE, FLORIDA

Major—Biological Science

Raimond is usually our entertainer as we wait in front of the dining hall. His clever sayings and amusing ways while away many tedious moments as we wait for the bell to ring.

MARY LATHAM

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Education

Mary is competent in teaching religion to young people; besides teaching well, she is considered one of our best singers. She has the lot in life of making others happy by her music.

Senior Class

RALPH PURDY

MT. VERNON, OHIO

Major—French

He has the tendency to go through life mildly and moderately. Ralph is orderly and quiet in his work and is quick to turn a friendly hand.

Kilby is the steady, dependable type. Always the same ready smile greets you. To smile, to love, to lift—is his aim.

Senior Class

ROBERT LEMBRICH

HAY SPRINGS, NEBRASKA

Major—Religious Education

Lembrich is a good student. He has the steady qualities of dependability and honesty. If a man is an honest student, he cannot fail in life.

ROBERT K. SMITH

DELAWARE, OHIO

Major—Religious Education

His lot in life seems to be making people happy. The most accommodating boy in Asbury, he has earned the friendship of many. His good nature will win for him in the foreign field, where he expects to labor.

Senior Class

TRUMAN POTTER

ALDEN, KANSAS

Major—Philosophy

His affections are sincere, and his ideals are for honest, kind, and normal manhood. Anyone with these virtues will be sure to have the respect of his fellowmen as he goes through life.

GENEVA MCGUIRE

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—French

Good looks, good sense, good humor, laughing brown eyes, and dark curly hair make up the Geneva we love and admire.

*Best Wishes.
Matt. 5:48.*

L. Robeson Akers, Jr.

Senior Class

L. ROBESON AKERS, JR.

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—English

Bob is in love with life. Fear and anxiety have no place in this nature, which radiates optimism. His enthusiasm runs high.

MIRIAM LARABEE

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—English

Gracious in manner, Miriam is typically a belle of the Blue Grass. She will beautifully fill the duties of any obligation.

Senior Class

ROBERT FILLMORE

MOOGERS, NEW YORK

Major—Spanish

Bob has good nature ingrained. Interested in life, he inspires others to live truly; thus he brings happiness to his fellows—and to himself.

HELEN COONS

RICHWOOD, OHIO

Major—English

High idea's, practical common sense, and originality make her a lovable person. Capable and interested, she has played her part in college life.

7/14 Dear Brimmer
 I have enjoyed knowing you as a friend and Brother. May God bless you in your new job for the month.
 1 Car 2
 Julia Himes
 Ky Conf. M.E. Church

Senior Class

J. O. HIMES

STERLING, OKLAHOMA

Major—Greek

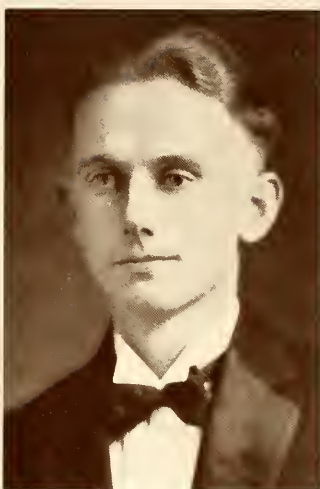

Himes has fought a good fight. Coming to Asbury in middle life, he has surmounted the difficulties which it brought, and leaves us with an enviable record.

EVANGELINE KLUDAS

SCOTTS MILLS, OREGON

Major—Biological Science

Mrs. Kludas is respected and loved by all Asburians because of her gentleness, unselfishness, and humility. We know that in whatever service she enters she will do her best.

Senior Class

MRS. BESSIE ALLEN

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Religious Education

Mrs. Allen is very industrious and is deserving of praise, because anyone knows that it is difficult to keep a home cheerful, and at the same time contribute much in the class room.

HARRY STRICKLAND

WILMINGTON, DELAWARE

Major—Social Science

A new but welcome member of the class, Strickland has shown himself to be resourceful and one who can be trusted. A good temper makes him agreeable to meet.

Rev. W. B. Moore
 Liberty Circuit M.
 Liberty Ky (Rayland &
 I have found you are really ever true. I was wondering when some words to go.

Senior Class

W. B. MOORE
 WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Biological Science

Uncompromising in his stand for truth, Brady has been a force for right in the student body. He has a passion for the lifting of the unfortunate which will lead him into paths of service.

HELEN OVERMAN
 WESTFIELD, INDIANA

Major—English

Helen is a diligent student, having the mildness, firmness, good judgment, and moderation which are most often attained with more experience.

Senior Class

NETTIE HELWIG

STANFORD, ILLINOIS

Major—English

If sincere and earnest effort count for much, Nettie will attain; strict adherence to duty is ingrained; she must accomplish the daily task.

This suggests a promising future.

GEORGE WYATT

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Chemistry

George is everybody's friend. He is always pleasant, ever prepared to chat—or argue.

*Chauncey W. Ellison
C. W. Ellison*

Senior Class

CHAUNCEY ELLISON

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Religious Education

Making the most of his time, he has developed a philosophy of life truly Christian; it has given him a poise which attracts attention.

EDNA STINE

STAR TANNERY, VIRGINIA

Major—Education

Broad prospectives and enduring motives direct this life. Being deliberate in her judgments and choices, an even and fruitful life is before her.

*Yours truly
Lila

Senior Class

ESSIE HICKS

HICKORY, VIRGINIA

Major—Biological Science

Amiable, winsome, and thoroughly natural in the class room or on the gym floor, is this lovable girl known as Essie. She is admired by all who know her.

V. O. PRIDDY

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Religious Education

It takes courage to labor through four years of school when you must bear the burden of a home also. Priddy has accomplished this task. The urge of a holy ambition has made real difficulties seem trivial.

Dear Friend: am

Warren Bowen
Rom 8:28

Senior Class

RUFUS CASE

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Biological Science

A successful teacher in the Academy this year, Mr. Case has demonstrated his ability. Besides a well-trained intellect he has a soul that is awake to spiritual values.

WARREN BOWEN

WILMORE, KENTUCKY

Major—Biological Science

He speaks quietly, but thinks dynamically. His vision of the needs of men has made him a winner of men. He is a model student, a loyal friend, and a gentleman.

The ordination of Francis Asbury as the first Bishop of American Methodism is of deep significance to both Church and State. To the Church it meant independence, and increased efficiency. To the State it brought the personal and official influence which Asbury exercised for nearly half a century upon the pioneer communities of the Republic, giving them not only a most distinct religious momentum, but hedging them about with social restraints, which feebly enforced statutes could not have maintained long. It has been claimed for Wesley that he had a genius for organization as marked as that of Richelieu. The same may be said of Asbury. Order was his passion. It was natural, therefore, that he should show marked skill as an administrator. Historians will base their final estimate of him not upon his preaching, not even his sainthood, but upon his outstanding qualities of leadership. He always led the way; he would not ask his preachers to do anything which he would not do himself. Bishop Asbury was not like a general watching a dress parade, but as one in the forefront of the fray.

Bishop Asbury was not a school man; unfortunate home conditions hindered him from obtaining more than a secondary education. But in the hour of his regeneration, a sense of his intellectual destitution was brought home to him, and was doubly emphasized when he heard the call to become an evangelist. He then became a miser of time, so eager was he to acquire knowledge. Despite unfavorable circumstances he gave himself to diligent study and became a learned man. Most of his studying was done on horseback; he always carried books in his saddlebags. "I have been employed in improving myself in Hebrew tones and points, this being my horseback study," he writes while on the road. Life to him was a long school-day—as long as the road he travelled. He sat at the feet of some of life's greatest teachers, such as—pain, hunger, cold, opportunity, a vast wilderness, and a few great books. God, nature, and solitude were among his instructors. ~ ~ ~ Bishop Asbury made an important contribution to American Methodism by his interest in denominational schools. He was not indifferent to the value of education to his preachers; schools were planted throughout the connection. Bethel, the Kentucky school (now abandoned), was located three miles from the present Asbury. The purpose of Asbury College is to carry on the work begun by Bishop Asbury.

~ Afterword ~

BISHOP ASBURY was one of that modest company of heroic souls who build larger than they know. If you seek for the results of his labors you will find them in our Christian civilization. How many temples dot our landscape; how many worthy institutions trace their existence to the sacrifice of this lone circuit rider!

No age ever needed more deeply than our own the light that fell from the life of Francis Asbury. As his figure stands for all the tomorrows in a place of honor, the fact that on horseback he rode two hundred seventy thousand miles and preached sixteen thousand sermons, will be a rebuke to those at ease in Zion and an incentive to spreading scriptural holiness in the land.

We offer ourselves, as a Christian College, upon the altar of a new consecration that to America might be given that devotedness, that faith in God, and that love of our fellowmen, exemplified in the life of Bishop Francis Asbury.
